

Hi, I am Bhavani, Working as a Software Engineer at orangescape, taking care of the backend development of the reporting module for KiSSFLOW - Product for workflow automation.

Apart from my work, I run two communities Build2Learn and Google's WomenTechmakers.

With Build2Learn we are bridging the gap between the industry experts and college students by bringing them to space where they can hack and learn together.

As a part of WomenTechMakers, I motivate women to pursue tech more than just as a Degree or career.

I am also a budding speaker, Speaking at local communities and conferences.

I love writing about tech, life, productivity, and other stuff in medium -
<https://medium.com/@bhavaniravi>

When I was in college, I had no idea about the opportunities I have in the tech industry. There was no one to guide or give me any exposure. But, in my first job I met my mentor, Mr. Dorai Thodla, who transformed me into something I never imagined.

I understood the importance of a mentor in a persons life and I want to be one in someone's life and that's why I am applying for the job.

Looking forward to hearing from you.